

Donna Miller

Donna is a former State Department macro-economic forecaster and trade policy analyst. Donna has worked with nine U.S. Ambassadors and is an accomplished writer and analyst of economic and trade policy reports and briefing papers. Donna earned several awards during her 27-year career with the Department of State for accurate economic forecasting, improved U.S. Embassy reporting on economic and financial issues, for the facilitation of trade dispute resolutions, and for promoting the United States Government as a good neighbor, which earned an article in the State Department Magazine, circulated worldwide. Donna also earned community service awards, including Volunteer of the Year, for her work with youth and sports.

Donna was born into a U.S. Air Force family at Lackland Air Force Base and spent much of her youth in England, Germany and other parts of the United States before moving back to San Antonio as a teenager and graduating from St. Gerard High School. Donna studied economics in Canada. After being away from San Antonio for over 30 years, Donna returned in 2004, soon joining a number of community-minded organizations because of her steadfast belief that people are only as good as those they help. Donna was hired by BioMed SA in December 2005 as the Executive Assistant to the President and two years later promoted to Director of Membership and Administrative Services.
